

ALPHA COMMODITY
APRIL 2026 NEWSLETTER

MARKETING COMMUNICATION | FOR PROFESSIONAL CLIENTS ONLY

THIS DOCUMENT HAS BEEN PREPARED FOR DISCUSSION PURPOSES ONLY AND DOES NOT CONSTITUTE AN OFFER OR A SOLICITATION TO ENGAGE IN ANY TRADING STRATEGY OR THE PURCHASE OR SALES OF ANY FINANCIAL INSTRUMENT.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Sub-fund aims to generate absolute returns⁽¹⁾ from the three main sources of alpha across the commodity markets, excluding the agricultural and livestock commodities sector.

STRATEGY

- The fund aims to generate absolute performance, by providing synthetic exposure to a portfolio of quantitative strategies aiming at benefitting from key Commodities markets' specificities.
- The aforementioned portfolio is a non-directional, market-neutral portfolio which seeks to provide access to distinct and unadulterated commodity alpha sources; it consists of three quantitative strategies which are broadly uncorrelated with each other, in order to benefit from diversification.
- Performance is harvested by capturing carry differentials that arise across commodity forward curves, in addition to the alpha derived from market inefficiencies and opportunities.
- There is a dynamic and risk-balanced allocation between the three strategies which is updated on a monthly basis.
- The fund incorporated a 2x leverage mechanism on 31st October 2022 into the portfolio construction process.
- The fund changed its Carry sub strategy mechanism on the 26th of March 2025.
- The fund changed its Backwardation sub strategy mechanism on the 30th of September 2025

These internal guidelines are for indicative purposes only; Prospectus and KIID are prevailing.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

PERFORMANCE

The THEAM Alpha Commodity fund gained +2.33% in April (A-share, USD). Momentum, Carry and Backwardation contributions were positive.

The index performance was mainly driven by the positive contribution of the Petroleum sector to Momentum and Backwardation strategies, Natural Gas to the Carry strategy. This was partially offset by the negative contribution of Brent to the Carry strategy, and Base Metals to the Backwardation and Momentum strategies.

MACRO & COMMODITIES ANALYSIS

- Equities rebounded this month despite the situation in the Strait of Hormuz remaining unresolved, with MSCI AC World up (+10.0%) and MSCI Emerging Markets outperforming (+14.5%). Renewed interest in AI led to increased appetite for sectors and geographies that stand to benefit from the technology, e.g. MCSI AC Asia ex Japan (+16.2%) due to exposures to Taiwan and South Korea.
- In rates, the Fed held their target rates at 3.50-3.75% and ECB similarly kept its three key rates steady, citing the “upside risks to inflation and the downside risks to growth”. Bond yields began to ease in April, reacting to the announcement of a ceasefire in the Middle East (10-year T-note 4.32% end of March, 4.25% 17 April). However, a lack of progress in negotiations and continued blockade of the Strait meant the T-note ultimately ended the month up +5bp. In Europe, disappointing economic indicators meant bond markets fared better, with 10-year German bunds up +4bp and French OATs down -3bp. USDDXY, acting as a safe-haven, moved in line with perceived geopolitical risk, dropping to its lowest levels since February in mid-April and finishing the month down -1.9%.
- Despite Energy Commodities finishing March at notably high levels and attempts to end the conflict, continued escalations in the later part of the month led to further rises in April (BCOMEN +7.41%), with the notable exception of US Natural Gas, down -9.61% with US storage levels remaining high. Industrial metals saw a reversal of last month’s negative performance with positive returns across the board and the sector finishing up (BCOMIN +4.67%), the top performers: Nickle (+13.04%) and Copper (+5.49%), being driven by supply shortages. Precious metals, on the other hand, had a relatively uneventful month with only small changes (BCOMPR -1.22%).

INVESTMENT PROCESS IN A NUTSHELL

For illustrative purposes only.

- The fund’s strategy aims to generate return by exploiting supply-demand imbalances and persistent price-trends in the commodities sector (excluding agriculture and livestock), by providing access to the following three strategies:
 - Alpha Curve: Aims at exploiting the difference in carry costs along the forward curve vs. the placement of benchmark indices
 - Alpha Momentum: Aims at exploiting the usual persistence of commodity price trends (supply-demand imbalances)
 - Alpha Backwardation: Aims at exploiting the usual outperformance of backwardated commodities
- There is an “Equally-Weighted Risk Contribution” allocation between the strategies, which is updated on a monthly basis.

WHAT ARE THE RISKS?

The value of investments and the income from them may go down as well as up and investors may not get back the amount originally invested.

Liquidity Risk: This risk arises from the difficulty of selling an asset at a fair market price and at a desired time due to lack of buyers.

Counterparty Risk: Linked to the default of a counterparty on over-the-counter markets.

Risk related to the use of forward financial instruments: In order to achieve its investment objective, the UCITS makes use of forward financial instruments traded over-the-counter that allow it to replicate the performance of the strategy. These instruments may involve a series of risks that could lead to adjustments or even the early termination of the instrument, which may affect the net asset value of the UCITS.

For the full list of risks, please refer to the prospectus.
